

1597

Saliles invented a calculating device known as a sector.

At least 1000 such instruments survive, usually made of brass or silver.